Greetings from the 163rd Anniversary Commemorative Committee

Welcome! Tonight, we celebrate the ongoing vitality and strength of our community, exemplified by the leadership of Rabbi Valerie Lieber, Director of Education & Family Programming. Our Hebrew School is thriving and growing due in large measure to the sustained efforts and talents of Rabbi Lieber; she is indeed worthy of this recognition and of our praise!

We are both long-time Kane Street members (we REALLY don't want to tell you how long!). When we arrived at Kane Street, children’s services were held upstairs in a small room approximately where our lovely chapel stands now. There were rudimentary classrooms, built out of plywood partitions. Learning was difficult due to the ambient noise. Supplies were always in short supply. There is much that love, talented educators and commitment can make up for, but the physical setup was for many children not conducive to learning.

In the late 1980s, a group of young congregants joined forces with long-time congregational leaders to improve the Hebrew School and professionalize the school. Former President Isaac Druker was a driving force in helping this group of parents realize their dream of a better school.

Thanks to a very generous grant from the Sol and Lilian Goldman Foundation, Kane Street was able to renovate that drafty and cramped space into a modern educational center. But we’ve both been in many a “modern” school building where there is no love of learning, no spark of interest.

Rabbi Val IS the Kane Street Hebrew School. She has a passionate commitment to Jewish Education of the next generation and to Tikkun Olam through both Social Justice and the environment. She is leading her students and staff to the next level. Kane Street is a sought-after and educationally-sound Jewish learning environment and we are proud of Rabbi Val for leading us to this moment.

We are grateful for the fundraising efforts of Ellen Bowin, Hedi Hruby, Laurie Lieberman, Susan Rifkin and Jill Rose.

With endless love and affection for Kane Street,
Rena and Barbara
Every morning, seven days a week, at the beginning of prayers, we recite a passage from the Babylonian Talmud:

“These are the precepts whose fruits a person enjoys in This World but whose principal remains intact for him or her in the World to Come. They are: the honor due to father and mother, acts of kindness, early attendance at the house of study in the morning and in the evening, hospitality to guests, visiting the sick, providing for a bride, attendance at funerals, absorption in prayer, bringing peace between people, and the study of Torah is equivalent to them all.”
(Tractate Shabbat 127a)

These are the Mitzvot upon which the world rests, and whose spiritual power is so great that they carry us not only in This World, but in the Next.

They also form a grid upon which to gauge the success of our community. Are we working to increase justice and Chesed/lovingkindness in the greater world? Are we supporting one another at life's most difficult and most joyous moments? Are we involving people with more passion and knowledge in prayer? Are we searching for answers for today in our texts of yesterday?

We find the answers not primarily in our special Holiday services or in milestone occasions of Bar and Bat Mitzvah or weddings. We find it in the daily commitment which our staff and members bring to the life of our community. And here I can report success... Our Social Justice Committee steadfastly supports refugees and now asylum seekers as our federal administration closes doors and turns its back. A dedicated and broad-based group of members worked tirelessly this year to develop an enhanced musical leadership position which will enliven Shabbat prayer. In a wonderful affirmation of our educational seriousness, fifty members have started to study Pirkei Avot, a foundational Talmudic text, in intimate, bi-weekly groups.

Through all, step by step, day by day, we make our community and our world more caring and Godly places.

In these efforts, we are blessed to be led by a wonderfully committed and talented group of lay and professional leaders. Our President Adina Solomon has met significant Congregational challenges with characteristic strength and focus, and led us with patience, wisdom, and indefatigable energy and love for our community. Executive Vice-President Leslie Wilsher combines a broad and loving vision of our community with great common sense, and has helped to steer us through office, personnel, and other institutional changes. I thank all of our officers, trustees and committee chairs for thousands of hours of volunteer service, for maintaining our fiscal and organizational health, and for shepherding new religious, educational and social initiatives. Their efforts are mostly unsung, but they are the backbone of our volunteer-run community.

You and I are also blessed with a very dedicated staff. I would like to first mention our Director of Education and Family Programming, and this year's Honoree, Rabbi Valerie Lieber. Rabbi Valerie has led us with tremendous drive and creativity for the last eleven years. She loves her job, and as she shares her passion for Jewish ritual and ethics with kids and their families, she inspires many others. Don’t take my word for it; just walk through the Hebrew School on any given day and feel the love! Rabbi Valerie follows and adapts for us cutting edge advances in supplemental and family Jewish education. So, she has graced our community with exciting initiatives in teaching Tikun...
I would also like to thank the rest of our professional staff. Rabbi Jason Gitlin continues to be a very welcoming presence, integrating new members into our community and into increased Jewish commitment as Engagement Director. Judith Berkson skillfully serves us as Music Director, leading services with her exquisite voice and heartfelt kavannah, and continuing to train our lay leaders in traditional prayer melodies and in the subtle art of effective prayer leadership. Rivka Seeman has been a delightful addition to our staff as Kane Street Kids Director, and guides her teachers in joyfully nurturing the emotional, social and spiritual growth of our youngest students. Thank you as well to all of our Preschool and Hebrew School teachers, to whom we entrust our precious children.

I would also like to appreciate Lori Tompkins, who served for seven months as Interim Executive Director this past year. Lori brought increased stability and organization to the office, and her professional and gracious manner fostered efficiency and good will in our community. I wish her the best in her new position. Our Hebrew School, whose success we celebrate tonight, owes a great deal to the modest but critical attention of our loyal and upbeat Hebrew School and Family Programming Administrative Assistant, Priscilla Murphy. I would like to thank Office Administrative Assistant Erica Southward for conscientiously fulfilling many day-to-day requirements in our organizational “nerve center.” A Yashir Ko’ach as well to William Waldman, our Financial Support Specialist, for ably handling so many financial details in a consistently organized and careful manner. Finally, thank you to custodians Nestor Restrepo, Pedro Sanchez, Trevor Malcolm and Gerald Bertrand for their daily stewardship of our facilities, and for making sure that we can hold so many services and programs in safe, clean and convivial settings.

I close with deep thanks to several members whose selfless efforts helped assure the success of our Anniversary Celebration tonight. Dinner chairs Jessica Schoengold and Elizabeth Schacher have spent scores of hours preparing every detail so that we could dine, dance, celebrate, honor, reminisce and envision together. Rena Schklowsky and Barbara Solomon-Speregen, with undying love for our Synagogue, led efforts for yet another “Journal season,” and spent many hours assuring the fundraising success of this evening. For them, and for all of our dedicated volunteers and staff, I close with this blessing from our Shabbat morning prayers:

“May the One who blessed our ancestors Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, Sarah, Rebecca, Leah and Rachel, bless all who are involved faithfully in the needs of the community…remove from them every illness and forgive their every sin…and send blessing and success to all their endeavors, along with all Israel, their brothers and sisters. Amen!”

Shalom,
Rabbi Weintraub
As president of the congregation, I am afforded three formal opportunities every year to address the kehillah. I speak during Kol Nidre, in the fall, when I welcome the congregation and encourage us all to reflect on our commitment to the community during the coming year. I speak at the Annual Meeting, in June, to wrap up the year and meditate on our accomplishments. And I write a message for the Journal, in which I am given the opportunity to thank the honoree and discuss their contributions to the synagogue.

One of the benefits of a long tenure on the board—this has been my sixteenth year serving—is the opportunity to see the long view of how things change at Kane Street, behind the scenes. Much of what we do at Kane Street is cyclical: not only in terms of the calendar, which gives us the drumbeat that guides our work year in and year out, but also the nature of our successes and failures. Neighborhoods change, congregations grow and shrink and grow again, programs are added and flourish and stabilize and dwindle and die and are reimagined and reborn. This is the nature of synagogue work; the only constant is the work, which always takes up as much time as you have for it, and never feels like enough.

Kane Street has been in a long period of expansion, in which most of the cycles are on the upswing: membership, fundraising, programming. And one particularly bright light in the midst of this expansion has been the growth of Kane Street’s Hebrew School, led unswervingly for the past 11 years by Rabbi Valerie Lieber.

Rabbi Val has done truly extraordinary work in not only increasing enrollment and expanding the ages of children we serve in the Hebrew School, but in deepening our concept of what a Hebrew School education can look like for families who are dedicated to the quality of our program. Recently, a congregant stopped me at Kiddush after a bat mitzvah and asked “Where did she go to school? Did she go to day school?” “Nope,” I replied proudly, “she’s a Hebrew School kid, just like me.”

Rabbi Val has challenged us to go farther than I would have thought possible ten years ago: in Shabbat attendance for kids, in the quality of the instructors we hire, in the types of classes and electives we offer our students. All of this is reflected in the joy I see on the face of my son when I pick him up from Hebrew School, and I am truly proud to know that he is receiving the best Hebrew School education available in Brooklyn right here at Kane Street Synagogue.

I spoke in my Kol Nidre appeal last fall about gratitude. I was grateful that our problems are our problems: that we are challenged to keep up with the demands of a growing and thriving congregation, that we struggle for space to fill the needs of our schools, that our buildings are bursting at the seams with children. Tonight, I am profoundly grateful that Rabbi Val came to us 11 years ago, and that she has helped drive our growth and vision during her tenure. Kane Street could not ask for a better leader or a more devoted educator to continue to challenge us and show us what’s possible.
Rabbi Valerie Lieber Biography

Rabbi Valerie Lieber has served as the Director of Education & Family Programs at Kane Street Synagogue since 2008. She oversees the Hebrew School, Shabbat and Holiday services for children and families, and a range of other family education programs. Previously, Rabbi Val served as Rabbi of Temple Israel of Jamaica in Queens, as well as the Rabbi and the Religious School Director of Temple Beth Ahavath Sholom in Bensonhurst, Brooklyn.

Rabbi Val was born and raised in Indianapolis, where she was an active member of Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation. She graduated from Swarthmore College with an honors degree in English Literature and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. Rabbi Val earned her ordination from Hebrew Union College in 1995.

During her tenure at Kane Street, Rabbi Val has deepened her skills through professional development and leadership programs. She launched the Hebrew School's L’Tzedek initiative—a service learning initiative—in conjunction with her participation in the Express Innovation initiative of the Jewish Education Project. She helped to lead the synagogue in greening initiatives while taking part in the Jewish Greening Fellowship. Last year, she took part in the year-long Qushiyot Fellowship for Revitalizing Israel Education. In 2015, Rabbi Val was named to the Forward’s list of America’s Most Inspiring Rabbis.

Rabbi Val has written interpretations of Torah and Haftarah, including an examination of Parashat Emor, ”Elitism in the Levitical Priesthood,” for The Women’s Torah Commentary (Rabbi Elyse Goldstein, ed.); a chapter in The Women’s Haftarah Commentary (Rabbi Elyse Goldstein, ed.; and an essay on Parashat Toldot in The Torah, A Women’s Commentary (Women of Reform Judaism).

Rabbi Val has been an environmentalist since high school. She has participated in four Hazon New York bike rides and co-chaired the steering committee for the 2012 ride. For the past four years, she has cycled in the Pan Mass Challenge to fundraise for Dana Farber Cancer Institute in Boston—riding from Sturbridge to Provincetown in Massachusetts. In the spring and summer months, she enjoys training in the Palisades.

In addition to cycling, Rabbi Val enjoys doing The New York Times crossword puzzle and exploring New York City’s neighborhoods and architecture. Rabbi Val lives in Park Slope with her wife Leah Kopperman.
~ Reflections ~
Rabbi Valerie Lieber

I am delighted to be the honoree at this 163rd Anniversary of Kane Street Synagogue. It’s a thrill to be a part of the storied history of this congregation and a pleasure to lead the Hebrew School and many of our family programs. Thank you.

While I’m very proud of the numeric and qualitative growth of the Hebrew School over the 11 years since I’ve been at the helm, I usually focus on the individuals and how proud I am of them. I think of the youngest students who were just starting in Roshanim and Gan in 2008, and how they are now in high school, flourishing and now so much taller than I am. I think of the children who were in elementary grades and who helped improve the school by participating in many pilot programs and paving the way for programs like our L’Tzedek service learning initiative, and helping us build youth services. They are now in college, and it is such a joy to see them when they are back at Kane Street. I think of the students who were in our very first Bogrim groups who have now graduated from college and are now doing great things with their lives. They are all “my kids.”

I use the term “my kids” to refer to children from age 4 to almost 40 - all the people who have been in my Hebrew Schools since I was ordained in 1995. I feel such a deep fondness for each of my kids, and kvell so much about them. It is a huge treat to have mentored these children along their Jewish path. They have taught and challenged me, and provided me with motivation to lead Hebrew School programming. I think of all who have worked as Madrichim (teen teaching assistants), spreading their wings as leaders. I am so proud of the skills they have developed and their commitment. Nothing could make a rabbi happier than to see young people grow into Jewish leaders and ethical adults.

I also think of all the parents who give so darn much to make sure their children receive a strong Jewish education. The dedication shown by parents is truly fulfillment of the mitzvah V’shinantam L’vaneicha from the V’ahava prayer “You shall teach your children diligently.” While I know parents get a good dose of nachas seeing their children singing the Alef-Bet song, asking and answering questions about Moses, chanting Haftarah and much more, I also know you make giant sacrifices – of time, energy and finances, and I deeply commend you.

I think of all the adults who do not yet have kids or never will, and those who already raised their children before my time at Kane Street Synagogue. You have shown wellsprings of support for the Hebrew School, and I’m very appreciative. You have given me freedom to try out new projects, to experiment with curricula, and to collaborate across the broader neighborhood. Sometimes our experiments spark excellence; sometimes they fall short. But we keep trying to make our young people’s experiences more fulfilling, uplifting and meaningful. Thank you.
I share this honor with my colleagues, senior staff members and our Hebrew School the teachers. You make this institution a place of intellectual ferment, holiness and menschlikeit. Thank you.

I’m very lucky where family is concerned. Leah, I love you. Mom, you are amazing.

Thank you so much again for this honor. I especially share my gratitude to those who worked so hard on this journal and event: Jessica Schoengold, Elizabeth Schacher, Rena Schklowsky, Danny Tamman and Barbara Solomon-Speregen.

OUR TALMUD TORAH

(Organized 1905)

* * * * *

WITH the conclusion of the present school term, our Talmud Torah will have rounded out 24 years of effort in the field of Jewish education of which it can well be proud.

During the 24 years of its existence, our Hebrew School has raised a generation of Jews, conscious of their Jewishness, proud of their ancestry, loyal and faithful to the Jewish cause. A number of our former pupils have, after leaving our portals, embarked upon the higher studies of Hebrew Lore; one has become a rabbi of prominence, others are preparing themselves to become authorities in Jewish education, while the rest have carried away from our classrooms an appreciation of Judaism which will remain with them for the remainder of their lives.

Our Talmud Torah is not a Hebrew School in the ordinary sense of the word. It is more than that. It is a reservoir of Jewish inspiration. In our School the pupils do not only learn to “daven.” They come to sing Jewish songs, to hear Jewish stories, to familiarize themselves with Jewish current events and Jewish problems the world over. Our pupils became impregnated with a sense of Jewish responsibility, a feeling of sympathy for suffering Israel and a deep love for our ancestral homeland—Palestine. At the same time we seek to implant into the hearts of our boys and girls the spirit of American idealism and patriotism, a love for the principles upon which this great country was founded and a deep respect for its traditions and laws.

If you could but see and hear our pupils at our Sabbath services; if you could but witness their Sabbath afternoon gatherings at which the responsive reading of “Thilik,” the “Minchah” services, the “Sholosh S’udos,” or Sabbath meal, are participated in by happy boys, singing “z’miroth” and discussing among themselves Jewish problems, you too would be proud of our Talmud Torah.

If you want YOUR children to remain Jewish and to bring you immeasurable happiness by their future conduct, send them to our Talmud Torah and we will do the rest.

Our School Is Yours.
Come and Enjoy Its Facilities.
Send Us Your Boys and Girls.

Reflections ~ School Days at Kane Street Synagogue

The idea of a Hebrew School at what is now Kane Street Synagogue is what might be called a core value. In 1905, Rabbi Israel Goldfarb began his long tenure at Kane Street. That year at High Holiday services, Rabbi Goldfarb's sermon focused on the importance of establishing a Hebrew School. The school was founded that very year.

Ultimately, we started an afternoon school (Talmud Torah) and a Sunday school, and we are fortunate to have some recollections from our earliest students. Their memories were included in the 2006 Kane Street Historical Journal, which commemorated Kane Street's 150th anniversary. Rabbi Goldfarb's son Joseph, remembered:

We had a Talmud Torah and we had a Sunday school. The Talmud Torah was a small weekday school. The kids came for two hours, M-T-W-TH afternoon. That was the Hebrew School… At the end of Talmud Torah, in May or June when the school year was ending, they had public examinations for pupils in each class. For the kids it was a very terrifying experience… The kids would be called in class by class. And along this wall (south wall) there would be another line of folding chairs for invited guests and parents to sit on the side. The classes would come in and then there would be an examination. My father or the teacher would ask them certain questions and hear the questions and then hear how well the children would respond or perform. If someone springs a surprise, it’s a challenge for the kids to come up with the right kind of answer. After ten minutes or so that class would go out and the next class would come in.

The other school was a Sunday school. They met every Sunday for two hours in the morning, and it started for kids of about six or seven, more or less parallel with the public school classes, and they stayed through eight grades…

There were volunteer teachers. Tuition was five cents a week. The teachers were not paid. The reward that the teachers got was that every year when the congregation had its annual dinner dance, which was an annual function that continued years and years. Each year the teachers were invited as guests of the congregation, no charge. It was a big gala social affair.

By the post-World War II era, our membership had dwindled significantly. While there were no longer enough children to justify the expense of a Hebrew School, we always left the door open for a renaissance, and that renaissance arrived in the 1960s, when Brooklyn was “rediscovered.” Brooklyn Heights, Park Slope, Cobble Hill and surrounding neighborhoods had wonderful housing stock that had been neglected for years. Energetic young people bought homes in Brooklyn, and Kane Street's re-birth began to take shape. New members started a Young Couples Club, and there were children! So Arthur Lichtman, Isaac Druker and Rabbi Elliott Rosen started a Nursery. As Rabbi Rosen recalled:

I have the fondest memories of Arthur. We were really “shul running buddies,” meaning that we were both equally naive as to how to run the place… I was a newly minted rabbi, he was a hotshot downtown lawyer, and neither one of us had quite prepared for our new roles…

What I remember best and most vividly is how we nearly single-handedly started the Kane Street Nursery. I think it was 1972. [ed. note: it was 1971] Basically it was a question of where we were going to send our own kids – his Adam, my Aliza. There wasn’t a nursery school in the area that we liked – and none that had even the hint of Jewish content. Believe me, it was folly to do this. The building was falling apart. Mr. [Julius] Kahn, who really ran things, thought we were nuts. This was something that had never been done before and we didn’t have a dime. And we weren’t sure that anybody would ever take a chance to send a kid to this kind of place.

Arthur was determined, and my utter doubt that we could ever pull this off was only assuaged by his constant activity and certainty that we were going to have a nursery school. I remember vividly that one night we were sitting in the shul and needed to make a final decision – to go or not to go.

He turned to me (and I swear I remember this nearly verbatim) and said, “Have you ever failed at anything that you really wanted to do?” I thought for a moment and tentatively replied, “No, I don’t think so.” Arthur replied, “Well I never have. So what’s the worst that can happen?”

And forward we went. The rest, as they say, is history.”

As the children grew up, we needed a Hebrew School, which Arnold Badner organized. And then in 1975, the second floor of what is now the Goldman Educational Center was renovated, thanks to a generous donation from Herman and Florence Belth. Hebrew School took place in the Belth Room and in partitioned classrooms, serving us until the school was bursting at the seams.

In the 2000s, a gut renovation of the building, funded by the Sol and Lillian Goldman Foundation, allowed us to modernize our facility, enrich the Hebrew School, strengthen Shabbat programs for children and establish Kane Street Kids, our beloved preschool.

Many congregants toiled long and hard to make Kane Street a place where children could grow and learn. In the 2006 Kane Street Historical Journal, Carol Levin cited the following members (current and former) who led our Prozdor/Hebrew School: Arnold Badner, Isaac Druker, Howard Schneider, Miryam Wasserman, Carol Levin, Rena Schklowsky, Penny Owen, Dean Ringel, Ellen Bowin, Arthur Mahler, Rene Stoller, Louise Lukowsky, Michael Stoller, Leslie Wilsher and Tracy Makow. We were also extremely fortunate that Miryam Wasserman served as our Prozdor principal.

By the 1990s, we needed to reorganize. Rena Schklowsky partnered with Isaac Druker to revamp the Hebrew School’s curriculum and focus. In 2005, Prozdor was renamed, becoming the Hebrew School. Since then, many Kane Street members have lent their time, support and leadership to the Hebrew School. We thank (with apologies for any omissions!) Ingrid Abramowitz, Gordon Baldwin, Sarah Berger, Jonathan Bloom, Jenny Breznay, Rebecca Brodsky, Leslie Budnick, Rachel Burton, Elizabeth Cleek, Norman Cohen, Allison Day, Dominic Fumusa, Bena Gershon, Andrea Glick, Sharon Gordon, Sarah Gundl, Hedi Hruby, Ro Johnson, Stephanie Kaufman, Jeff Klein, Michael Klein, Hal Klepper, Denise Kohn, Aviya Landesberg, Michal Lewin-Epstein, Reed Lowenstein, Barry Nass, Brett Parker, Susan Radin, Renee Rettig, Joanne Robinson, Jill Rose, David Salz, Elizabeth Schacher and Laura Tamman.

These dedicated members of the Kane Street community recognized the need to further professionalize the teaching staff and those efforts culminated in the hiring of Rabbi Valerie Lieber in 2008. Currently, the Hebrew School Committee is ably chaired by Sari Fensterstein and Judith Hoffman.

The rest, as they say, is history.

Greetings
June 2, 2019

Kane Street Synagogue
236 Kane Street
Brooklyn, NY 11231

Dear Friends:

It is a pleasure to send greetings to everyone gathered for Kane Street Synagogue’s 163rd Anniversary Celebration.

This egalitarian Conservative synagogue, Congregation Baith Israel Anshei Emes, has served the spiritual, cultural, and social needs of its membership and fostered a greater appreciation of Jewish identity while encouraging charity, unity, and friendship throughout the area. I commend everyone affiliated with this well-respected synagogue for their generous support and dedicated involvement in the Cobble Hill neighborhood of Brooklyn.

Tonight, you come together to look back at a year of achievements serving as a center for Jewish life and learning. I join in congratulating your distinguished honoree, Rabbi Valerie Lieber. Her leadership as your Director of Education & Family Programming and her many years of meaningful contributions will long be of benefit to the grateful people of Brooklyn served by the Kane Street Synagogue.

With warmest regards and best wishes for an enjoyable evening.

Sincerely,

ANDREW M. CUOMO
Dear Friends,

It is my pleasure to send greetings to each of you attending the Kane Street Synagogue 163rd Anniversary Celebration.

I am grateful to the Kane Street Synagogue for fostering a thriving Jewish community in Cobble Hill. The synagogue provides Hebrew classes and other family programs, as well as support for immigrants and refugees, effectively engaging with local Jewish families and assisting in social justice initiatives. Congratulations to the honorees. I am thankful for their service to the community.

Please accept my best wishes for a wonderful event and many more years of continued success.

Sincerely,

Kirsten Gillibrand

Dear Friends:

It is an honor to extend my sincerest congratulations to Kane Street Synagogue on your 163rd Anniversary Celebration. Thank you for being an exceptional addition to the Brooklyn and New York Community.

Since its conception in 1856, Kane Street has grown into a vibrant epicenter of Jewish life. The Hebrew School reaches nearly 150 students of diverse backgrounds, providing for engagement through family programs and music classes. Kane Street continues to show their commitment to the community’s well-being with the Cobble Hill Center, which provides vital support to the Brooklyn Heights Synagogue Homeless Shelter.

I commend the Executive Director Alan Bell, Rabbi Sam Weintraub, Rabbi Jason Gitlin and the entire staff at Kane Street for the selfless work in our communities. I would also like to recognize tonight’s honoree Rabbi Valerie Lieber, who has made invaluable contributions to her community as the Director of Education & Family Programs at Kane Street.

Thank you, Kane Street for being leaders for social justice in our community. Best wishes for many years of success.

Again, congratulations!

Sincerely,

Nydia M. Velázquez
Member of Congress

Kane Street Synagogue
Congregation Baith Israel Anshei Emes
236 Kane Street
Brooklyn, NY 11231

Dear Friends:

It is a great pleasure to send greetings to the many members, friends, and supporters of Kane Street Synagogue as you gather for the 163rd Anniversary celebration and to commend the Synagogue on its longstanding role as a vital hub for local Jewish life and its continued efforts to promote social justice.

As a cornerstone institution in the Cobble Hill area, Kane Street Synagogue has kept members of the neighborhood’s Jewish community in touch with their traditions and values, and has extended its reach across Brooklyn to support immigrants and refugees and provide basic necessities like food, clothing, and toys for those in need.

Tonight, I also join Kane Street Synagogue in honoring Rabbi Valerie Lieber, Director of Education and Family Programming and the Hebrew School. I thank Rabbi Lieber and the entire Kane Street community for your commitment to your work and all that you do to inspire charity, wisdom, and mutual understanding in these challenging times. Congratulations again on 163 years, and best wishes for a successful event!

Sincerely,

Brian Kavanagh
June 9, 2019

Dear Friends:

It is a great pleasure to send greetings to all those celebrating the Kane Street Synagogue’s 163rd Anniversary.

We have a responsibility, every one of us, to ensure that New York remains a beacon of hope and progress, and I am proud to be Mayor of the largest urban Jewish community outside of Israel, one that has worked hard to build a better and brighter future for our city. For 163 years, Kane Street Synagogue has provided a steadfast spiritual home for New Yorkers that is firmly committed to social justice and making a positive difference in its Cobble Hill neighborhood. In addition to uniting its members for times of fellowship, Kane Street has offered a variety of adult education courses, programming for youth, and a variety of volunteer opportunities for people to get involved in lifting the floor for their fellow residents. As we celebrate this milestone in its history, I am proud to applaud this outstanding congregation that has inspired a passion for Jewish heritage and traditions as we continue to ensure that all people in our city can practice their faith in peace and freedom.

On behalf of the City of New York, congratulations to this year’s honoree, Rabbi Valerie Lieber. Please accept my best wishes for a wonderful anniversary celebration and continued success.

Sincerely,

Bill de Blasio
Mayor

Dear Mickey,
Did you ever–ever think the way our lives would one day re-entwine is that you’d come to work for the shul where we daven? Life is full of surprises. This surprise is extremely welcome. As are you. We look forward to kibitzing at kiddush, and to watching you wrap this cantankerous congregation around your finger.

Much love,
Noah and Carolyn
I’ve faced the giants of brute force, that swell
And rear erect on heaped-up nothingness:
Caesars and autocrats and princes, yes,
All those whom mortals worship, loathe, adore:
I’ve faced the Jupiters of total power
For forty years, victorious, running wild!
Look now: I’m vanquished by a little child.
—Victor Hugo

Congratulations, Jay and Naomi, on the arrival of little Noa, and the start of your most joyous adventure.

BDG-CPAs salutes Rabbi Valerie Lieber, Kane Street Synagogue’s Educational Director. May you go from strength to strength!
Thank you, Rabbi Valerie Lieber, for your dedication, creativity and devotion to Jewish Education. How thrilling it is to see the Hebrew School, Shabbat Morning Services and Family Programs bursting at the seams.

Thank you to all staff members who work with our children, encouraging a love of Yiddishkeit.

Yasher Kochem to all those who are serving or who have served on the Hebrew School Committee for your time and effort in maintaining and building such a strong program.

And thank you, Isaac Druker, for agreeing to come out of “retirement” in the mid-80s to work with a small group of upstarts on the reorganization of Prozdor. Our present Hebrew School relies on the structure you helped create.

With much appreciation,
One of the upstarts,
Rena Schklowsky
Congrats to Rabbi Val on being honored at the Kane Street dinner! Your leadership and energy are an inspiration to all the children and families who’ve participate in your programs! Thank you for all your tireless work and for making Kane Street a wonderful place for everyone.

For Rabbi Valerie, strong leader and cherished colleague.

Rabbi Sam Weintraub
Thank you to the entire congregation for this wonderful honor! I am grateful for this and for all the support you have given me to try to create the best Hebrew School, youth programs and family activities in all of Brooklyn! I hope to continue to inspire and educate our children and teens and this community and be inspired and energized by them for many years to come.

- Rabbi Val

To my original inspirations: My family
- Thank you to my wife Leah. You inspire me daily with your high ethics, your very tough Jewish questions and your love. I am lucky to come home to you every day. We must laugh all the time.
- Thank you to my mom, Ann T. Lieber, a lifelong teacher and creative educator who inspired my love of Jewish learning.
- Thank you to my siblings and their spouses for sharing our Jewish lives: Barry - the first in Hebrew School who got me so excited about Hebrew letters all those years ago. Wendy, the one who first wanted to be a rabbi and became a youth group leader before me, paving the way. Mike, who attended the first High Holy Day services I ever led and buoyed my confidence. Thank you to Oscar, Ayal and Rebecca for being my nicest siblings.
- Thank you to the kids on whom I try out all of my stories first, and from whom I get so many great educational ideas. More important, you give me my favorite role in life, Aunt Valerie: my nieces and nephews: Adva, Nomi, David, Evan, Sarah, Gabriel and Reece. I love you so much.

Thank you to the Teachers, Teen Madrichim and the Children who fill our classrooms with energy, curiosity, vitality and wisdom!

Thank you to all the teachers and staff I’ve worked with at Kane Street Synagogue Hebrew School over the years.

Rabbi Val and the Hebrew School Committee—

Leaders—fabulous and fierce.

What amazing accomplishments!

From these heights … to ones even higher.

Rabbi Sam and Rabbi Jason—

Thank you both for leading our community in times of trial and times of joy. You always offer comfort.

Trustees and Officers of Kane Street Synagogue—

Thank you for all the tireless, thankless hours you spend and for your devotion to our community.

To our children—Josey and Max,

Our delight in you increases daily. We are impatient to witness your next adventures.

We are truly grateful to be part of this community.

Peace,

Jenny Breznay and Dan Klein
Thank you Rabbi Val for guiding our children throughout their Hebrew School experience and Judaic education. Your dedication and tireless effort to the children of Kane Street is truly appreciated. Mazel Tov!

With gratitude, Denise, Adam, Caleb, Talia and Julius Congratulations to Rabbi Val for a job well done and
A big Todah Rabah to the Hebrew School Committee

Val, I’m so glad you’ve found a place that recognizes your intelligence, hard work, and kind heart. I’m so proud to be your wife, today and every day.

With all my love,
Leah
Val,
I’m so proud of you. Not only do you “learn for life,” you have taught generations of Jews, inspired them to find life’s deepest meanings, and consoled them in times of darkness. I love you.

L’chaim and Mazel Tov!
Mom
Mazel Tov to Rabbi Valerie Lieber. You have re-energized our Hebrew School and imbued Kane Street’s students with your passion for learning and Tikkun Olam.

Best regards,

may my heart always be open to little birds who are the secrets of living whatever they sing is better than to know and if men should not hear them men are old may my mind stroll about hungry and fearless and thirsty and supple and even if it’s sunday may i be wrong for whenever men are right they are not young and may myself do nothing usefully and love yourself so more than truly there’s never been quite such a fool who could fail pulling all the sky over him with one smile

Dear Val,

Congratulations on this well-deserved honor. Temple Beth Ahavath Sholom (TBAS) was very fortunate to have you as our Rabbi as you began your career and it’s wonderful to see how much you’ve achieved since your years with us. Personally, I will be forever grateful to you for introducing me to Hazon, which opened my eyes to the multitude of things that are happening in the Jewish world. May you continue to enrich the education and experiences of Jewish youth for years to come.

All the best,

Eric Platt

Rabbi Val Thank you for so many years of dedicated teaching with joy. Your love of learning and Judaism has been transmitted to the next generation and, as parents, we are forever grateful.
